

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Tennessee Air Pollution Control Board has promulgated regulations allowing the issuance of general permits for certain non-major sources (Rule 1200-03-09-.06 of the Tennessee Air Pollution Control Regulations). General permits are not issued to a specific source, but instead are issued for a specific source category. Sources within that category can then apply for coverage under the general permit. General permits can serve as both construction and operating permits, but sources located in a nonattainment area are not eligible for a general permit for construction of a new or modified air contaminant source if the source emits the pollutant and/or a precursor to the pollutant for which the area has been designated nonattainment by the United States Environmental Protection Agency or the Tennessee Air Pollution Control Board.

Draft general permits have been prepared for certain perchloroethylene and petroleum solvent dry cleaning operations. The eligibility criteria for these sources are included in the draft general permits. Copies of the draft general permits and associated documents are available for public inspection during normal business hours at the following location:

Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation
